Well! We've reached the conclusion of The Song!

Today, we made some final observations as we looked at not only the relationship between Solomon and his bride, the Shulamite, but also a deeper look at our Savior's relationship with us.

I do want to address a looming concern that I briefly mentioned in the first message. Many wonder about this book because, as we know, Solomon went on to marry many women and deeply transgressed his own belief about one woman for life (Ecclesiastes 9:9).

Keep in mind; however, God is revealing to us through the Song of Songs that Solomon's relationship with the Shulamite, his first true love, was before he sinned so greatly by accumulating foreign women.

The Scripture clearly tells us these women (1 Kings 11:1-4) turned his heart to other gods - his heart was not fully devoted to the LORD.
This is a warning for all of us.

Laying that sad fact aside,

1. How did this book impact you?
2. What are your main take-aways?
3. Have you grown in your love for the Lord?
4. What Chapter made the biggest impact in your life?
