FROM THE PRINCIPAL

Happy New Year, Bethany families! It's good to be back together again. I ran into a few of you during the break and heard more than once, "it's time for the kids to go back to school!"

The parenting gig is hard work, isn't it? And it never ends. (I have a 27- and 29-year old. The answer is "nope...it just changes over time.") :)

One of our parenting priorities is helping our children navigate technology. It's possible there are some new devices in their hands after Christmas: phones, game systems, tables, smartwatches, etc. and that means helping kids balance the new freedoms that come with these devices with the responsibility to use them wisely.

Do you need to brush up on the sites that go along with said devices? How about some suggestions for monitoring screen time and coaching your child's onscreen behavior?

I encourage you to check out Common Sense Media for straightforward guides to the latest media and great advice for families. Then put February 12 on your calendar: we'll be hosting a parent workshop from Protect Young Eyes, an organization dedicated to creating safer digital spaces for kids.
