A word from your Pastor...

“A TALE OF TWO BALLPARKS”

I love sports. I always have. Playing, coaching, and watching have always been such a joy. Athletics teach hard work, discipline, toughness, team work, how to lose, how to win, how to take instruction, leadership, and so many other important life lessons. Some of my greatest memories are from events that took place on a field or court. Some of the finest men and women I know have tremendously impacted lives by investing their time and effort as coaches. Certainly sports, when not approached from a proper perspective, can take the form of idolatry. We witness that constantly not only with people's devotion to college and professional sports teams but also in the arena of youth sports. But we should not proverbially throw the baby out with the bath water because its function is at times abused. Instead, we should redeem the positive value that athletics can have in young people's lives.

It serves us well to be reminded that statistics show that only .023% of young athletes will go pro. Less than 2% of high school athletes will ever be given any form of college scholarship for sports. Maybe those stats should be on signs and placed on the sidelines of all youth sporting events. Like many of you, I have witnessed some of the most vile and un-hinged behavior imaginable at youth sporting events. But this past weekend I was reminded of the most important lessons that sports teach. I had the privilege of being at our Miracle League Ballpark in McComb and watched some incredible people play America's game: baseball. These athletes have differing physical and mental limitations, but you will never witness anyone display the love of the game and each other more than you will on that little field. Along with these athletes are students and adult volunteers who give of their time to make these games some of the most fun and inspiring that I have ever witnessed.

You can learn lessons on that field that go deeper than how to hit a curve ball, the proper way to shoot a free throw, or techniques of the form tackle. The lessons from that field are ones which we all need to learn. Here are just a few: Love the game. Love each other. Work hard. Get up when you fall down. Encourage someone. It's not all about you. You can do better next time. There are people rooting for you. Have fun. Respect the game. Respect your opponent. Thank God for the opportunity and ability to play. Be kind. Be positive. Help someone that needs it. Never give up. Attitude is everything.

God teaches us, reminds us, and encourages us in so many ways. Thank you to all the players and volunteers of Miracle League. God is using you to teach me and many others so much! Maybe by your example we can all remember Paul's words in Philippians 2:5, "Your attitude should be the same as that of Christ Jesus." May our love of the game be exceeded by our love for the Savior!

In Christ,

Larry
