Am I Enough?

Gretchen Foster

1 Do you agree with the statement, "you become that which you behold"? Why or why not?

2 Has there been a time in your own life when you have gone to extremes to imitate someone you admired? What or whom is currently the object of your imitation?

3 Do you see yourself as God's dearly loved child? No matter which way you answer, does that have an affect on the way you view and approach parenting?

4 Jesus claims to be the only one in which we can find our identity, satisfaction, and ability to love. Why do we continually look outside of Christ expecting to find something better?

5 Is being an image bearer of God's glory something you desire? What are some first steps you can take to make that a reality?
