

KASE'S COLUMN

hi family!

SNEAK PEEK OF WHAT'S TO COME:

- FLIGHT CANCELATION
- WELCOME TO HONDURAS
- LANGUAGE SCHOOL

Hi to my most favorite people! This month has been absolutely incredible. I have seen God working in huge ways! God is so good and I am so blessed to even say I know Him. So with all of that I am ready to get into the details of July!!!

leaving lubbock

Toward the end of June and July I was trying to get all of my final goodbyes in. I said bye to my family out of town in Fort Worth and Abeline. I also had to say bye to some of my best friends from home. This was not very easy at all but hard goodbyes just show how important these people are in my life and that they mean so much to me. When I was having my last meal with my family I got a notification saying that my flight from Lubbock to Houston had been canceled. I was pretty upset because I thought that I would have to fly by myself. But shortly after another one of my teammates flight was also canceled and so we decided to move our flight to another day. Since the cancellation was due to the hurricane lots of people were trying to get flights rescheduled for the following days so we wouldn't be able to leave till the 12th, which was 4 days after we were originally supposed to leave. It was hard knowing that our team wouldn't be able to fly together, but God is never surprised and he always knows what he is doing!!! But on Thursday July 12th I safely arrived in Honduras!

first days in Honduras

After arriving to Honduras a few days later than expected, a lot of our plans for the first few days were thrown off. On the 12th we spent most of the day traveling, we didn't fly into Honduras until almost 3 and we had a very long drive to get into Corquin. We got to meet our coordinators in person for the first time! Then the next couple of days were spent going around the town trying to learn how to get around and just become comfortable with the area. We have now been in Honduras for almost three weeks and that is wild to think about! I have loved getting to know the culture, and the slang, and the yummy food!

PRAYER REQUESTS:

- ABILITY TO LEARN SPANISH BETTER
- CONNECT WITH RADICAL TEAM DEEPER
- MY TEAM AND I CONNECT MORE AND MORE
- OVERALL HEALTH

first days in Honduras pt 2

In our two weeks in Honduras we have been working a lot with the church and also very closely with a ministry the church has called radical. Radical is a group of young men and women who visit all of the schools in the area surrounding Corquin. When they make these weekly visits they bring Bible stories to life as they act it out and help teach the kids a moral story from a story straight out of the Bible! It is so amazing to go and visit the kids and see them run up to you trying to give you a hug the second you walk in! It is so incredible to see that even to random strangers these kids still want to welcome us into their school and make us feel seen. In radical we sing song and do dance and have a short little play and then they go into the classes and teach a little more in depth about what you can learn from the story! I'm so glad to say we have been able to work with them and connect with them because they are around our age!!!

language school

As many people know the main language in Honduras is spanish, and none of my team speaks spanish! So with that being said we have to take spanish classes to learn! When my coordinators were learning to speak spanish they went to a spanish school in Antigua Guatemala and found it to be super useful and helped them learn spanish! So they decided to enroll us in the same school! It is officially day two of learning espanol! I'm not going to say its been easy, BUT it I have so much fun with my teacher and we like to laugh a lot! We will be in Antigua for 3 weeks for school and then we will return to Corquin for 3 weeks and then back to Antigua for another 3 weeks of school and then we will be done!!! It is all very nerve racking at the moment, but I know it will be worth it in the end! Not much to say about school yet because we are only two days in! But so far so good and I am hopeful for the future!

bye bye

Well guys, I think I have used all of the power in my brain that is trying to work in two languages! Honduras has been a blast so far and I cant wait to see what else God has for me around the corner! He is so amazing. Thank you as always to my supporters who help me financially, spiritually, and mentally. I love you all so so so much! Now for my favorite parttttttttt... PICTURESSS
