

AUGUST NEWSLETTER

language school

the first three weeks of august my team and I spent it in antigua guatemala! I talked a little about it in my last newsletter but it was shortly after we started so I didnt have much to say but now we have completed our first three of language school! I feel very accomplished and proud of my team and myself. its not an easy thing to learn a new language and my team has done so good. it was a long and tiring trip but we are so blessed to have the funds to go thanks to you guys! it is an amazing program and requires hard work! but it is a lot of fun

being able to see around the town of antigua. it is a very touristy town and very beautiful. to expand a little on school, we go from 8 am-12 with a thirty minute. break in the middle, and then we have a two hour lunch which is so amazing! and then we go till 4:30! and the entire time you are being immersed in spanish hardly speaking any english with a one on one teacher. I was very nervous for this but once being in it, it is exciting getting to know a new teacher every week and get to tell them about why we are here! which is a great opportunity to get some God talk ;) but overall it was a lot of fun!

more about antigua

antigua is soooo beautiful! i am so glad that we got to visit a very popular town. antigua has some beautiful volcanos and they are active! and it's so cool because at night you can see the red from the volcanos lava! God is so cool! we got to go to a cute little hobbit village and it was so beautiful. although school was hard it was a lot of fun to go to soccer games and eat some yummy food and just have fun!!!

welcome

hi everyone! another month has come and gone so that means its time for a newsletter update! this month has been exciting and tiring and travelful and such a blessing. there is some fun still to talk about so lets hop in!

the radical team

my first teacher

back in corquin

right now we are back in corquin for three weeks! sadly, we only have one more week in corquin before we head back to school for another three weeks. so what is it that we've been up to?! well, we have mainly been working with radical and getting very involved in that ministry. its been so much fun to grow my relationship with the radical members but also with the kids at school! sometimes we will be walking down the street and I will hear my name being yelled by some kid at one of the schools we visit! that is the best thing on the planet! I am so thankful I get to know these kids! but we have also done things within the church with the ladies, youth and things of that sort. it has been a great three weeks and I hope it continues to go greatly!

the antigua view

kenna and I at an antigua soccer game!

thank you :)

this month was sort of crazy because we had to go back and forth between corquin and antigua. but the time spent in antigua was good to practice our spanish and sight see around the town and even get some american food we've been missing haha! and being back in corquin has been great too! I have loved getting to know radical more! and the kids ugh they are so amazing and they make me feel so loved and happy! yesterday we went to one of the cutest schools and they gave us these notes and they had written for us and I teared up a little haha! but that is the best feeling in the world and God has definitely blessed me with these adorable kids! im also very thankful for all of you and giving me the opportunity to have an impact on radical and these kids. if you have any questions or comments, reply and I will answer to the best of my abilities! love you guys so much! enjoy some pictures!
