

campamento la cruz

WELCOME

HI EVERYONE! first i want to start off by saying happy new year! i hope that this first month of 2025 has been a blessing to each one of you. this first month for me was long and crazy but also so much fun and exciting. i'll explain all about it in these next few pages! so lets goooooo

CAMP CAMP CAMP

i dont remember if i had told you guys or not but a few months ago us AIMers signed up to be counselors at a church camp run here in honduras! since november we've been having meetings and planning for this upcoming camp. welllll this month was the month of camp! the camp is called campamento la cruz. there are three weeks of camp that are held. the first week is for the kids of ages 8-11, the second is 12-14, and the last week is 15-18. my team got to attend all three weeks participating as counselors while kenna was the camp photographer and videographer! she got to make weekly videos that were pretty cool! this camp was definitely different from other camps ive been to but i got to have new experiences and really good memories!

as a counselor you spend a lot of time with the kids and get to know them really well. the camp is open to kids from the town over called Santa Rosa and to Corquin and all the surrounding small towns. so this was definitely a great opportunity to get to know the kids in the area. each week had its own unique things to it i feel the main difference that made it unique was the ages of the campers. the first two weeks the games and most of the activities were the same, but some games were easier or harder for them depending on their age.

more camp

my favorite week was the second week. like i said the activities were the same but the kids made it the best for me. the first week the kids were so full of energy and fun, they always wanted to run everywhere, and they were so sweet and lovey towards us. but the second they still love to have fun and run but you can have deeper conversations with them. i feel like i really got to connect with my girls that week! and the third week was a lot more bible based and i enjoyed that as well!

most camps i know of have time of crafts, games, snacks, stuff of that sort but this camp also has a time where they act out stories of the bible! in this time a few counselors are chosen to help with the acting and we would be given a story to act out to the kids and have them reenact it as well. we had daily themes and those related to what story we would act out that day! i always love dress up days and we had some really fun ones like royal guard and emotions!

although it was a super tiring three weeks i am so so glad that we had the opportunity to go to camp. i got to get to know some of the corquin kids better and i also made some really really good friends while being there with the other counselors and i miss them so much already. another amazing thing that happened while we were at camp is that there were 7 campers and 2 staffers that got baptised! that was super fun to see and such a blessing for my heart too. i miss my campers and all of the laughs and fun that i got to have but i am thankful to be back in corquin with my people! some of the radical members also came to counsel too! we are now just doing the last minute preparations for the upcoming year! im looking forward to the future months and i am thankful for what we've done!

lastly i just want to say how thankful i am for all of you and the prayers and support i have been given! i am thankful for the opportunities that the Lord has blessed me to have while being here and i couldnt be here without you guys! i ask that you guys be praying for my team as we keep going! i love you all and here are some extra pictures!

