“Don’t Stop, There’s More!”

God is going to do something significant in your life today. How many of you “want” God to do something for you.? How many of you “need” God to do something for you? Amen. We always need God, even the ones that say “they don’t need God” but he “needs” God. We give God praise, glory and honor..Amen.

The Book of Mark speaks of some of the miracles that Jesus performed. When He is performing miracles, people don’t understand the significance of them. That’s how it is in people’s lives today. Sometimes Christ is doing something miraculous whether we realize it or not. The one miracle that God performs is the miracle of Salvation. Only God can save someone that is not worthy to be saved. With men it’s impossible but with God all things are possible. A miracle is something that can’t be explained. Sometimes people can look at you and say, “how can God save you? I knew you when...” do you understand what I am talking about? That’s a miraculous statement because they knew you when you weren't meant saving. Aren't you glad God does not move according to the thoughts, words or heart of others. A preacher once said, “if you want to make God laugh, tell him your plans!” Sometimes we humor God by the things we think and say. I thank God that we are reminded, in the words of God, “our ways are not God’s ways and our thoughts are not God’s thoughts. His ways and thoughts are higher than ours. When you think good about yourself , it brings you to a place where you can boast about yourself and boast about what God has done. Paul said, “I boast and brag in in my weaknesses!” When you look at yourself and feel good, there may be something going on with you and your situation, you can boast in the fact that God can handle that situation and God can deal with what that problem is. In Mark 6; it’s the miraculous story about the 5 thousand people, 5 loaves of bread and 2 fish. Jesus began to minister to the people. In Mark, Matthew and John it says, He looked at them, had passion for them because they were like sheep without a shepherd. Sometimes God can look at us differently than everybody else and see we have a problem or an issue or “you” could be a problem but God looks upon your life with compassion. He knows that sometimes you are in a certain place in your life, you have become the way you are due to not having proper leadership or guidance. A shepherd know how to lead his sheep and lay down his life for the sheep. When you come to Jesus, the Shepherd lays down His life for His sheep. As He looked at the people He ministered to, He noticed they didn’t have anything to eat but He understood before anyone could complain. Before you complain, God already knows what you stand in need of or before you even ask. How do you know this? Because the word of God has already declared this. He tells us, “seek ye first the Kingdom of God!” Understand that as a believer, when you have that point of need, you can look for God to be more than willing to meet it. “Give God Praise!” Jesus said what do we have to feed them. He didn’t want to send them away because they may faint along the way being in a deserted place. You will find yourself like that in life. Aren’t you glad Jesus is looking upon your life with compassion and willing enough to do something about the situation. I need to know one thing, what do you have that I can work with? Like the 2 fish and 5 loaves of bread Jesus lifted up to heaven, gave Father thanks and served the people. What God has to release in our hands to meet the needs of a multitude of people. If we allow God to already use what we have, offer it to him and put it in God’s hands. Little becomes much in the hands of Christ. There is enough “Glory” to go around!!

Origins of Black History Month

The story of Black History Month begins in 1915, half a century after the Thirteenth Amendment abolished slavery in the United States.

That September, the Harvard-trained historian Carter G. Woodson and the prominent Minister Jesse E. Moorland founded the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History (ASNLH), an organization dedicated to researching and promoting achievements by black Americans and other peoples of African descent.

Carter G. Woodson and Rev. Jesse E. Moorland (above) wanted to highlight the often overlooked role black people played in both American and world history. To accomplish this goal, they co-founded the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History.

The pair hoped that their various projects would help instill their race with a sense of pride.

Woodson later founded “Negro History and Literature Week” in 1920, while he was a member of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity at Harvard University. Woodson later became the second black person to receive a degree from Harvard.

Nine months before Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat on a bus in Montgomery, Alabama, in 1955, 15-year-old Claudette Colvin refused to move to the back of a bus to give up her seat to a white person. When the bus driver ordered her to get up, she refused, saying she had paid her fare and it was her constitutional right. She was arrested.

Jesse Owens was a track-and-field athlete who set a world record in the long jump at the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin and went unrivaled for 25 years. He was the first American to win four gold medals at the Olympics.

Alice Coachman became the first African American woman from any country to win an Olympic Gold Medal at the 1948 Summer Olympics in London.

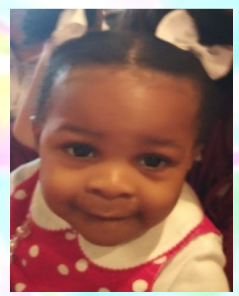

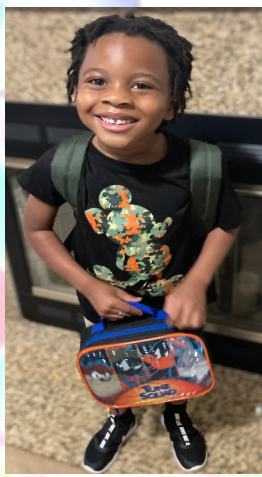

Bessie Coleman is the first licensed Black pilot in the world. Though history has favored Amelia Earhart or the Wright brothers, Coleman went to flight school in France in 1919 and received her pilot license in 1921, inspiring diversity in the aviation field. In 1922, she performed the first public flight by a Black woman. She was famous for doing "loop-the-loops" and making figure eights in an airplane. In 1995, the Bessie Coleman Stamp was created in her honor.
