Kennison's Corner

Dear Parents,

Everyone has a story, a history, or an event that has impacted their life. I actually have two events that occurred fairly close together that really impacted my life, as well as tested my perseverance and faith, but also strengthened my faith through prayer. I love cycling and was an avid cyclist. Yep, I was that cyclist you would have to pass on a narrow country road going uphill and you couldn't see oncoming traffic. However, in the summer of 2015, that changed when I was hit by a drunk driver in the middle of the afternoon. I was life-lined to St. Vincent in Indianapolis while my family was receiving text messages from an app I used in case of an emergency. The text messages indicated my location and meant I had not moved in five minutes. It was a long recovery physically and emotionally for me and my family. I now go to spin class three days a week where there are no cars and it's safer for me.

Then, two years later I was diagnosed with fallopian tube/ovarian cancer. I can remember trembling with fear at the oncologist's office. However, the tumor was found so early that my oncologist said, "If we had found the cancer two years later, you would not survive, but we have a chance to cure you." So, after two surgeries and six rounds of chemotherapy, I have been cancer free for 6 years.

Now, I left out many details to my two events, but the big detail is that during my recovery and chemo treatment, I remember constantly praying for strength and healing. Also, there were many times I would wake up from a nap either during my recovery in the hospital or during or after a chemo treatment, and see my husband on his knees praying beside me. Eventually, my husband and I would walk and pray together, and our prayers changed to prayers of praise and thanksgiving. I'm not sure when, but the feelings of anxiety and insecurity about the future were replaced by feelings of faith, trust, and peace. Faith, trust, and peace, knowing that God was going to take care of everything.

Prayer is the way we talk to Jesus and it creates and strengthens our relationship with God. It also does the same for families. So during this Lent, I encourage you to make praying a priority and to pray as a family. Hopefully, one of the events that your children will remember is praying together as a family, and will continue this with their children or in their vocation.

In Christ,

Mrs. Sandra Kennison
Principal
