In what ways does Paul's analogy of the human body help us understand the idea of unity amid diversity?

How does Paul connect the church with Christ in verse 12? Why is this a meaningful connection for him to make?

What is the baptism that Paul is referring to in verse 13? What are some misunderstandings of this baptism that believers should be aware of?

How do verses 14-16 highlight the significance of every member of the body? Why are we sometimes tempted to think that our gifting is not as important as others' gifting?

While it might seem humble sometimes, why is it an offense to God to minimize the importance of our spiritual gifts?

How does verse 18 highlight the sovereign work of God to give individuals the gifts they have been given? Why might this be important for us to remember?
