A Reformation Rally

by Nikki Jackson

On a Sunday evening in the fall of 1913, Lutherans from across Eau Claire gathered for what the Eau Claire Leader called "A Reformation Rally."

The First Norwegian Evangelical Lutheran Church, then located at Fifth Avenue and Hudson Street, was packed. There was not a vacant seat, the Leader reported, and many people were forced to stand. Lutherans from across the city had come together to remember Martin Luther and the movement he had begun nearly four centuries earlier.

The evening opened with a "rousing" rendition of "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

The keynote speaker was Dr. Frank Nelson, president of Minnesota College in Minneapolis and a prominent educator in the Augustana Synod. Described by the Leader as "one of the best orators in the Northwest," Nelson spoke on a subject that seems remarkably relevant more than a century later: "The Reformation and Its Relation to Present Day Problems."

Nelson reminded his listeners that the Reformation had changed far more than the church. Luther and his fellow reformers, he said, had changed the map of Europe and given ordinary people "a more living conception of their God."

At the heart of his message was faith.

"We believe as Lutherans that there is no one between us and God except Jesus," Nelson told the crowd. "By faith in him we are saved."

Although the Leader's account does not tell us whether Nelson quoted Scripture directly, his words reflect the message of Ephesians:

October 2026 - 2

"For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith...it is the gift of God—not by works." – Ephesians 2:8-9 (NIV)

"There is much going on in the country today that we cannot subdue to any great extent," he acknowledged, "but each one should enter into the struggle with all his might, armed with faith."

But Nelson was not interested only in looking backward. He wanted his listeners to consider what the Reformation meant for Christians living in 1913.

His advice was simple: "Do what you can and when you are in doubt as to what to do, ask God and there is always a way out."

His words bring to mind the advice found in James:

"If any of you lacks wisdom, you should ask God, who gives generously to all without finding fault, and it will be given to you." – James 1:5 (NIV)

For Nelson, faith was not something to be practiced apart from everyday life. Luther, he said, believed that a person should "do what God had given him to do." Christian freedom meant what Nelson called the "freedom of service." Galatians 5:13 expresses much the same idea: "serve one another humbly in love."

Nelson also worried about what he saw happening in the culture around him.

"We are getting to be a frivolous people, laughing and sneering at religion," he warned. "You can't laugh your way into heaven."

The circumstances of 1913 were different from our own, but the larger question remains: How do Christians live out their faith amid an ever-changing culture?

Jesus speaks to that tension in his prayer for his disciples:

"My prayer is not that you take them out of the world but that you protect them from the evil one... They are not of the world, even as I am not of it." – John 17:15-16 (NIV)

For Nelson, the answer was to live faithfully within the world—to trust in Christ, seek God's guidance and serve others.

"Problems of the present day are solved by the principles of the Reformation, for which Luther stood," he told the congregation.

The evening ended on a fitting note. Lutherans from different congregations and communities shaped by different European languages and traditions joined together in Luther's great Reformation hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," sung in four languages – English, German, Swedish, and Norwegian.

This year, on Reformation Sunday, October 25, let us too remember the Reformation and its continuing witness to the Biblical truth at the heart of Luther's message: salvation is God's gift, received by grace through faith in Jesus Christ. And like those Lutherans who gathered in Eau Claire more than a century ago, may we consider what that faith means for how we live and serve in the world today.

*Remember to wear red on the weekend of Reformation Sunday!

A message from Pastor David Irgens

"¹⁷For in it the righteousness of God is revealed through faith for faith; as it is written, 'The one who is righteous will live by faith.'" Romans 1:17

What's it matter? Halloween again. Right? Or is there more to it? Oh, there's more, so much more! We mark our year by our celebrations. It used to center on the Summer Solstice, Winter Solstice, birthdays, graduations, and major steps in life. In the church, it's Christmas, Holy Week, Good Friday, Easter, Ascension Sunday, Pentecost, but there's more.

On All Hallows' Eve – October 31, 1517, "the reverend father Martin Luther, Master of Arts and Sacred Theology and regularly appointed Lecturer on all these subjects at that place (Wittenberg University)" (95 Theses) reportedly went to the church door in Wittenberg, which served as the university bulletin board, and nailed 95 Theses (arguments or propositions) to debate the practice of granting indulgences. The Catholic Church claimed to hold the keys to salvation. Indulgences were a means of great revenue for the Catholic Church. They preyed on people's fear of purgatory and hell for the money to pay for the building of St. Peter's Basilica in Rome. Rich non-clergy were buying positions as archbishops (called simony) as an investment backed by bankers. If you could buy a piece of parchment of forgiveness (an indulgence), you could spring a loved one's soul from purgatory. Luther learned about the depth of God's grace as he taught the Psalms, Romans, and Galatians, which led him to understand that God's righteousness has been given to us through faith in Jesus Christ. He wanted to reform the Roman Catholic Church and bring them to understand God's grace through faith in Jesus Christ, but the church was held captive. Let me make it simple. True story.

A few years ago I did a funeral for a fellow. His family said that as children they went out to their grandparents' farm for part of the summer. When Bob (the deceased) was young, he made a bow and arrow. It wasn't the best bow and arrow, but good enough. He was a terrible shot, but one afternoon he went out to practice. He saw that annoying goose running around the yard. The goose chased and pecked at anyone who came near him. He aimed near the goose to scare him, but to his horror, the arrow went right through the goose, and down went the goose. He took the goose, hid him behind a pile of wood, and put dirt over him. Later, one of his sisters came to him and said: "I know about the goose; you do my chores, and I won't tell Grandma." Grandma asked what happened to the goose; no one said a word.

Whenever it was the sister's turn to wash the dishes, pick eggs, feed the pigs, she would remind Bob, "Remember the goose." And Bob would do whatever his sister wanted.

After a couple of days of doing his sister's chores, he had enough. Finally, he told his grandma. She said, "I found the goose yesterday. It's okay; I was wondering how long you'd put up with your sister blackmailing you."

"⁴⁷For in it the righteousness of God is revealed through faith for faith; as it is written, 'The one who is righteous will live by faith.'"* Romans 1:17

We are called to faith in Jesus Christ through the Holy Spirit giving us faith in God's Word. We are freed from sin, death and the power of the devil, and no longer enslaved to sin, but the very righteousness of God has been given us through faith in Jesus Christ. God has forgiven our sins and sees us covered in Christ's innocence, righteousness, and blessedness (2 Cor. 5:21, 1 Cor. 1:30, Explanation of the 2nd Article of the Apostles' Creed) to the glory of God. We take God as His Word. We believe in Jesus Christ, realizing we are not taking a hold of Him, He already has a hold of us.

In a letter written July 1530 to Jerome Weller, a 31-year-old friend, who tutored his children, who was struggling with spiritual despair, Luther writes, "Laugh your adversary to scorn and ask who it is with whom you are talking. By all means flee solitude, for the devil watches and lies in wait for you most of all when you are alone. This devil is conquered by mocking and despising him, not by resisting and arguing with him.

"When the devil throws our sins up to us and declares we deserve death and hell, we ought to speak thus: 'I admit that I deserve death and hell. What of it? Does this mean that I shall be sentenced to eternal damnation? By no means. For I know One who suffered and made a satisfaction on my behalf. His name is Jesus Christ, the Son of God. Where he is, there I shall be also.' Yours, Martin Luther" (Luther: Letters of Spiritual Counsel, trans. and ed. Theodore G. Tappert (orig. 1960; reprint, Vancouver, BC: Regent College Publishing, 2003), 85).

"For freedom Christ has set us free. Stand firm, therefore, and do not submit again to a yoke of slavery" (Galatians 5:1). There it is! There's the Gospel taking hold of us again! So be it.

In Christ Jesus our Lord,
Pastor David

Genesis

by Pastor Dan Doran

To pick up where we left off last month, we have started our lessons in confirmation on the Old Testament. We're working on memorizing all 66 books of the Bible—it's a lot of work! I invite you to join us. If you just memorize about 5 book names a week, then you'll get through the entire Bible by the end of the school year. So, the kids have the first five books of the Bible down. Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy. These first five books are called the Books of Law.

Genesis stands out among these five books. Genesis contains all the history that takes place before the people were set free from Egypt and given the laws or any of the ten commandments. Genesis doesn't contain a list of laws or rules or any code for the people of God to follow. It tells the story of how everything was created, how sin entered the world, and how God began working to reverse the effects of sin and death in the lives of his chosen people.

So, how come Genesis fits together with the rest of the books of the Law? The book of Ecclesiastes helps answer the question. ⁹"What has been is what will be, and what has been done is what will be done; there is nothing new under the sun. ¹⁰Is there a thing of which it is said, 'See, this is new'? It has already been, in the ages before us" (Ecc. 1:9-10). "There is nothing new under the sun." Even though Genesis happened so many years ago...life is not so different from when Abraham and Sarah walked the earth. Couples still point fingers at one another instead of owning their mistakes (like Adam and Eve). Children still try to manipulate their parents to get more than their fair share of the inheritance (like Jacob and Esau). Couples still are challenged by infertility (like Abram and Sarai). People are still faced with the temptation of infidelity (like Judah and Joseph).

Genesis is a book of the Law not because it contains a long list of rules for us to follow. Instead, it contains the real-life example of God's people, sometimes obeying, but often times going against what would be revealed in the Ten Commandments. We get to see, in the lives of those who have walked before us in faith, what happens when we obey and when we disobey God's will in our lives.

So the illustration and the challenge from the book of James applies also to the book of Genesis. ²³"For if any are hearers of the word and not doers, they are like those who look at themselves in a mirror; ²⁴for they look at themselves and, on going away, immediately forget what they were like" (James 1:23-24). We should be able to see ourselves in the book of Genesis. Like looking in a mirror, we will be able to sympathize with certain characters, recognize some of our own conflicts alive in the text as we read it, and see the sin we struggle with played out in the lives of those first believers.

But, ultimately, we see a merciful God working through the lives of broken and sinful people to accomplish his good and gracious will. If anything, the book of Genesis will teach us that we too need God's mercy. We've got the same sin sickness that got Adam and Eve kicked out of the garden. Yet, we know the God who gives hope in the promise. A promise that stretches beyond our sin, our shortcomings, and our mistakes. A promise that rests on the work of God in our lives. He has proven himself faithful to generations gone by—and he has promised to be faithful to you.

Every Blessing in the Lord,
Pastor Dan

The Armor of God

by Katherine Altreuter

"For by grace you have been saved through faith. And this is not your own doing: it is the gift of God."

Ephesians 2:8

Ron Johnson and the Tuesday Bible Study crew are going to be studying the Book of Ephesians this fall. Coincidentally, I've been reading Ephesians and studying a specific chapter the past few weeks. If you turn to chapter 6, you will read a passage on putting on the whole armor of God. In order to overcome "the wiles of the devil" (6:11), we must take on these different pieces of armor and weaponry that God gives us: the belt of truth, the breastplate of righteousness, the shield of faith, the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, "which is the word of God" (6:17).

I love the imagery in this passage. And it's true! Fighting against temptation and sin really is like a battle, and God's Word and the Holy Spirit gives us strength to go back into war once again.

With Reformation Sunday just around the corner, we've been talking a lot about Martin Luther and his works. His hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," is like the passage from the sixth chapter of Ephesians put to music:

Verse One: "A mighty fortress is our God, a sword and shield victorious; He breaks the cruel oppressor's rod and wins salvation glorious. The old satanic foe has sworn to work us woe! With craft and dreadful might he arms himself to fight. On earth he has no equal."

God is our sword and shield and He is the only one to grant salvation. Luther went up against the Catholic Church with a list of grievances because the Church claimed they would "grant salvation" if you just gave them a little bit more money. Does God ask for our money or really any of our earthly possessions? God wants us to give up our desire for mortal treasures, for sure. But we're not finding our hope through paying a monetary fee. The real cost is what Jesus Christ did for us on the cross. Now we must trust in our Lord and have faith no matter what!

THANKSGIVING PRAYER VIGIL

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18

10:00AM-5:00PM

More information coming soon...

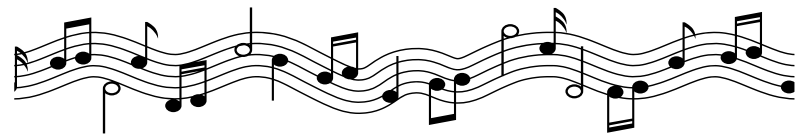

Over and over in the New Testament Jesus and His disciples talk about grace through faith. While we are still to follow God's Word and laws, we will always fall short. It is our faith in God that brings us closer to Him and allows us to nurture our relationship with Him. God has set an unattainable standard in Jesus Christ that is worth striving for because it better shapes us as disciples.

We read in the fourth article of the Augsburg Confession, "It is also taught among us that we cannot obtain forgiveness of sin and righteousness before God by our own merits, works, or satisfactions, but that we receive forgiveness of sin and become righteous before God by grace, for Christ's sake, through faith, when we believe that Christ suffered for us and that for his sake our sin is forgiven and righteousness and eternal life are given to us."

For it is by what Christ has done that we are saved. When Christ is the center of our mission work, of why we volunteer at church, or help our neighbors, or even as simply as attending worship services, then we know what God's mercy is all about. Because no matter how good of a person you may be, it is what Christ has done that brings you to God.

Verse 2: "No strength of ours can match his might! We would be lost, rejected. But now a champion comes to fight, whom God himself elected. You ask who this may be? The Lord of hosts is he! Christ Jesus, mighty Lord, God's only Son, adored. He holds the field victorious."

So put on the armor of God - our Lord, Jesus Christ - as you walk in faith. "For God himself fights by our side with weapons of the Spirit" (Luther, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God").
