Marietta's Lied

from Die tote Stadt

by Erich Korngold

*Happiness that remains near to me,
Return to me, my true love.
Evening sinks into the grove,
You are my light and day.
Anxiously beats heart on heart
Hope soars heavenward.
How true, a sad song.
The song of true love,
that must die.*

*I know the song.
I heard it in my youth,
in happier days.
It has yet another verse—
Do I still remember it?*

*Though sorrow draws near,
Return to me, my true love.
Hold your pale face to me,
Death will not separate us.
If you must leave me one day,
Believe, there is an afterlife.*

Im Abendrot

by Franz Schubert

*Oh, how beautiful is your world,
Father, when it shines with gold!
When your radiance descends
And paints the dust with shimmer;
When the red that twinkles from the clouds
Sinks silently upon my window.*

*Could I complain? Could I despair?
Could I lose faith in you and in myself?
No, your heaven is right here,
I will carry it in my bosom.
And this heart, before it breaks,
Drinks in more embers and savours more light.*
