FYI: Each time a substitute request is established, the text message asking if you are interested in fulfilling it, goes out one person at a time, to each person who has noted in their profile that they are available that time of that day to be a substitute.

The system randomly chooses the orders of the substitutes notified so the same person wouldn't always be the first one asked to fulfill that day and hour.

The system allows you five minutes to reply with a "Yes" or "Reply" response. If neither are given within five minutes, the system will move onto the next person on the list until someone has replied with a "Yes" or until all available substitutes have been notified.
